Dear Gen. Clark, Gen. Williams and Admiral Buck:

I write to express grave concern with the COVID-19 vaccination mandate policies at your institution and to seek information about these policies to ensure your respective academies have instituted a legally compliant system to consider and review religious and health exemption requests submitted by your institution's cadets or midshipman, as the case may be.

My office has received numerous letters from persons enrolled at our nation's military academies and their families. These letters state that cadets and midshipman are routinely being denied requests for religious and health exemptions with respect to the implementation of the Department of Defense's COVID-19 vaccine mandate. This is unacceptable.

Since the memorandum titled "Mandatory Coronavirus Disease 2019 Vaccination of Department of Defense Service Members" was first issued by Secretary of Defense Lloyd Austin on August 24, 2021, I have repeatedly raised concerns about the manner in which this directive has been implemented, not only as affects military personnel generally but also as to the impact on individuals enrolled in our nation's military institutions. I am concerned that our nation's military academies have not given appropriate deference to religious and health exemption requests consistent with laws duly enacted by Congress, such as the Religious Freedom Restoration Act (RFRA), the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), and other civil rights laws. I am also deeply troubled with reports concerning the manner in which our nation's service academies have implemented vaccine-related policies, leading to requests for exemption being summarily denied.

The Biden Administration has clearly overreached when it comes to rules, regulations and orders that impose vaccine mandates on American citizens. In a number of cases, these mandates have been struck down or blocked from going into effect by the courts. For example, on January 13, 2022, the Supreme Court struck down the Biden Administration's vaccine mandate issued by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) which required COVID-19 vaccines or weekly testing and the wearing of face coverings for all private employers with 100 or more employees.

Congress has also weighed in on the vaccine mandate issue. On December 8, 2021, a majority of the United States Senate voted in favor of a resolution of disapproval that would overturn President Biden's workplace mandate affecting businesses with at least 100 employees. Additionally, on February 17, 2022, the Senate voted 46 to 47, narrowly defeating the Lee-Cruz amendment that would have repealed five of the Biden Administration's vaccine mandates, including the DOD mandate.

In your current capacity, you have taken on the responsibility to lead one of our nation's finest institutions and to help mold the character and intellect of America's next generation of military officers. As part of your responsibility, you have a sacred duty to instill in the young men and women enrolled in your academy not only a proper respect for the chain of command in our civilian-led military but also to ensure that officers are able to deduce right from wrong when given an order. Any institutional failure to follow our nation's civil rights laws, including those protecting religious views, undermines the core objective of your institution.

Therefore, it is incumbent on each of you to ensure that every request for a waiver from your institution's COVID-19 vaccine mandate is fully and fairly considered, consistent with federal civil rights laws. In order to ensure that your institution is following all applicable civil rights laws, I am hereby requesting responses to the following requests and questions listed and ask that you provide your response no later than April 8, 2022. Please provide a separate response to each question below, rather than a narrative response.

Ted Cruz
